"You can lead a horse to water, but you cannot make him drink."

We know that advertising will often sell the first pair of shoes. If they are not right nothing can induce the purchaser to come again.

We believe the highest endorsement we have for

Crawford SHOES

is that when one once begins to wear them we have secured another life customer, who does more to advertise us than anything we could say ourselves.

Style, as any one can see, the CRAWFORD certainly has.

Comfort and the good wearing qualities that are the result of the high grade material used in the manufacture of CRAWFORD SHOES are appreciated by CRAWFORD wearers.

Retail Prices $3.50 and $4.00

There was never a nobbler or more up-to-the-minute line of hats than we are showing now.

We have just the hat for your head and if it's marked with the

BEAVER BRAND

you are sure of the quality.

IT seems almost incredible that for the price we are able to sell a shoe that for style, comfort, and wearing qualities will entirely eclipse the best efforts of the high-priced custom maker.

Crawford SHOES

are style-setters, satisfaction-breeders, comfort-promulgators. They have the earmarks that bespeak New York and London ideas. No wonder our customers are men who are fastidious as to the details of dress, yet are sagacious enough to save the $7 or $8 they would pay extra for a custom shoe no better.

Japanese Painting Exhibit.
San Francisco is to have the first exhibit of Japanese paintings ever held outside of Japan, it believes. There will be no prints, because the Japanese say prints are not art, but artisanship. But there will be 150 specimens of paintings in water color or sumi (a black medium), on paper, some of them dating back 1,200 years.

Slates Long Used in Schools.
It is not easy to tell exactly for how long a period slates have been used by school boys; but they were used as writing tablets as far back as the Middle Ages, and probably, therefore, they were introduced into the schools of Europe at a very early period in the history of education in this part of the world.

Spade Guineas.
The tenant of a Hertfordshire (Eng.) farmhouse looking through some old books, found in Dr. Croley's "Salathial" a pencilled note indicating that valuables were hidden under an attic floor. Wrapped in quaint silk dresses of the Georgian period were found forty spade guineas and other coins.

Saves the Spellbinder.
At a political meeting in Brighton, England, a speaker, finding that the point of one of his jokes had missed, sorrowfully remarked: "I had hoped, gentlemen, that you would have laughed at that." A plaintive voice came through the silence: "I laughed, mister." Then everybody laughed.

Practical Theology.
The Japanese have thought it no desecration of the Buddhist temples to use them as prisons, on the principle that, Buddha having granted the victory, the temporary gift of the prisoners to his godhead is only appropriate—an eminently practical theological view which is very characteristic.—Country Life.

No Fly.
A lady had been recommended by a friend to try this cure for neuralgia: Put a bottle of stout to warm by the fire, and wait until the cork flies out. The lady did so, and it was not until she had waited an hour and a half that she discovered it had a screw stopper.—London Answers.

To Mend Crockery.
Take the broken dish and put together and tie tightly; take some milk and put the dish into it so it will cover broken places and let it boil. When it has boiled, say fifteen or twenty minutes remove from the fire and let cool in the milk, then remove the string and your dish is most as good as new.

Case of Absentmindedness.
A policeman, going his rounds in the early morning, in Bath, England, saw a clock standing on the doorstep of a house. He rang the bell and found that the occupant had taken the milk picher up to his bedroom, leaving the clock where he had intended to put the picher.

Red Mouse Caught in Maine.
An Augusta, Me., resident set a trap the other day and captured a very red mouse. The resident is said to have been perfectly sober when he went to visit his trap, but for the sake of avoiding all possibility of error he took his prize to a very sober reporter to prove his statement. Both agree that the animal was a very pronounced red.

Be just to yourself. Eat nothing but the best.
Sayre Mill and Elevator Co.

Perseus a Race of Dreamers.
According to Henry Savage Landor, who has spent much time studying business methods among these people, the Persian hates anything that savors of promptness. He is a dreamer, and, although he cannot be called absolutely lazy, as he is usually absorbed in deep thought, still he seldom has little leisure for anything else. The returns for his work, however beneficent, are too small for his expectations.

Importance of Home Life.
French literature has ever savored largely of sensualism, its society characterized by libertinism. Given the same conditions in America and the same results will follow. If the United States, England and Germany are leaders among the nations in moral culture and sane advancement, it is because they have preserved the integrity of their home life.—New York Press.

For Those That Are Nervous.
For a diet, milk, oysters, butter, eggs (raw or soft), cocoa, graham or gluten bread, beef, fowl, mutton, lamb or fish. Among vegetables, spinach, lettuce, string beans, brussels sprouts or stewed fruits are best. Be very careful not to eat too much. Best of all, forget that you are nervous. Get busy and shut it out. If necessary, even stop thinking.

Total Abstainers Escape Gallows.
In answer to a query, Berry, formerly the English executioner, states that not one of the 500 persons whom he hanged was a total abstainer.

Reading Shows Character.
Bad reading makes bad thinking, and there is much of both. What a person is reading is the best index to his character.

Mexican Cotton Pest.
Conchuela is the name of a Mexican cotton pest which, it is feared, may spread to Texas.

Steam Not Complete Master.
Steam has by no means made sailing vessels obsolete. The total number of them in the world is still 65,934, as against only 30,561 steamers.

Dried Currants for Horses.
Dried currants given to horses occasionally, instead of oats, are said to increase the animal powers of endurance.

Cost of White Pine.
White pine lumber costs to-day five times as much in this country as it cost in 1865.

THE LITTLE PIGS.

Hints on Handling the Mother Hog and Her New Family.

In very cold weather it may be necessary for a few days to remove the pigs to a warm place after they have suckled to prevent chilling. As newborn pigs suckle as often as every two hours during the day, this entails considerable inconvenience, but it is time well spent and may mean the difference between profit and loss to the breeder. The pigs are soon able to fight their battles with the cold unaided by any but their own warmth and that of the dam.

For the first twenty-four hours the sow should, as a rule, have no feed and will need none. If, however, she shows signs of hunger a thin slop of bran and shorts or a thin oatmeal gruel may be given. Tepid water should be given to drink as the sow wants it. Never give cold water. The feeding for the first three or four days should be light and carefully given, and the time consumed in getting the sow on full feed should be from a week to ten days, depending on the size and thrift of the litter. The first feed should be very light and in the form of the thin, warm slop already mentioned, working gradually to full feed.

No time should be lost after farrowing in getting the sow into the open air. Of course when pigs are farrowed during the cold months care will be needed, and it may be necessary to let the pigs reach the age of two weeks before turning them out. They can, however, get considerable exercise in the piggery or in the lot with the sow, and there is often a lot adjoining a barn that is sunny and sheltered from cold winds where the new family may be turned for exercise. Avoid particularly allowing the pigs to run out during a cold rain. They are especially tender during the first weeks.—G. M. Rummel.

Broncho and Mustang.

The broncho and the mustang are practically the same type, the only difference being, as a cowboy recently expressed it, that "a mustang has a little the most devil in him." The broncho, in the strict sense of the term, is a cross between the mustang and a horse of any domestic type, says D. H. Stovall in an exchange. When it comes to all around work the broncho is certainly "all there." He will work like a demon wherever he is put. He will pull all day at the business end of a plow and still have energy enough left to kick the gable end out of the stable when night comes.

The Shetland Pony.

The demand for Shetland ponies continues unabated, according to Breeder's Gazette. One prominent breeder who owns around 400 head states that he never knew the trade so good and that he is able to sell all surplus as soon as he is willing to let it go at practically his own price.

THE SHEPHERD

Fleeces uniform in quality and length of staple are most desirable for manufacturing purposes. Consequently if we wish to produce wool most desirable for the manufacturer we must not cross indiscriminately, but by systematic grading up with some definite breed of sheep produce a more even grade of wool throughout the fleece.

The Dandy Little Southdown.

At all the English shows the dandy little Southdown takes the lead among the short wool breeds, writes the English correspondent of Breeder's Gazette. From their extreme sweetness in appearance as well as the fact that their mutton runs highest in the market, these beautiful sheep appear to hold visitors in the most profound admiration. At Norwich, Birmingham and Smithfield the display of this breed was, to say the least of it, most satisfactory. The royal flock from Sandringham invariably comes well to the front at these shows, and 1905 witnessed quite extra good sheep from that famous fold.

The Boom Dissolving?

The boom atmosphere has disappeared in the sheep and lamb market, according to a Chicago exchange. Prices are still high, but the summit has evidently been reached. Trade experts contend that there is a limit to everything, even to the advance in mutton.

The "Know How" With Sheep.

Some men find it profitable to feed sheep simply because they are possessed of the "know how" of the business, and some of them hint that one man can know this as well as another if he will only put himself in a position to learn.

Gentle Handling Is a Winner.

No hogs or other stock should be allowed to run with the flock or in any way annoy or frighten them. Quiet, gentle and familiar handling of the flock will have a good influence on the coming crop of lambs. No class of stock is more susceptible to kind treatment than sheep, and it is a pleasure as well as profitable to handle them so.

Lamb Chops.

Look out for early lambs; see that they do not get chilled.

Separate the heavy ewes from the rest of the flock and see that there are no drafts to affect them in the pens.

The pen should be warm and dry and if possible have windows facing the south, so that the sun can shine in. If lambs become chilled they can be warmed in hot water and then dried by being wrapped in a towel and placed by a stove.

If the ewe does not own the lamb she can be fastened in a rack or so tied that the lamb can suck when hungry.—Farm Journal.
